Ten million glass jars were to be delivered. Of these ten million, twenty per cent were originally intended for the German people. This was rescinded and the whole production was ordered delivered to SMA Karlsruhe. From this it is to be inferred that the Russians are stocking canned goods as rapidly as possible. Since no tin is available in the Russian Zone for canning purposes, vegetables and fruit have to be preserved in glass jars.

2. According to another report, 400 tons of butterfat were canned during August and September for shipment to the U.S.S.R.
